Noodles price point — and where Unilever sits

Typical unit pack price

Typical unit = volume-weighted R/kg × pack size. Sachets sit at R5.88–R7.90. Knorr is ~8× that.

Unilever SKUs — June 2026 only

Pasta Pots are not a sachet

86% of noodles value is R5–8 a pack. Knorr Pasta Pots are R49 a pot / ~R790/kg, 0.56% of Noodles in June (R1.24m). Hold R49; do not promo into the R6 band.

SKU	Value	Mix	R/pot
Carbonara	R603k	49%	R49.05
Tomato & Mozzarella	R368k	30%	R49.22
Mushroom	R269k	22%	R49.08

Not in the file before June. Carbonara is 49% of the line. The three SKUs compete with each other first. Samyang (~R39) is the nearer competitor, not Maggi or Kellogg's.

So what: Unilever is not in the sachet game

1

Noodles runs Pasta

Noodles is 64% of Pasta value and growing +8.2%. Dry pasta (Tiger, private label, Mr Pasta at ~R32–35/kg) is a different business. Unilever is absent there.

2

Kellogg's is winning, Maggi is losing

Kellogg's 46% of Noodles (+2.0pp). Maggi 29% (–5.1pp). Indomie and Samyang are the other gainers. That is the competitive frame, not Knorr vs Maggi on the same pack.

3

The category price point is ~R6

86% of noodles value is a R5–8 sachet (Roka R5.88, Kellogg's R6.09, Maggi R6.79, Indomie R7.90). Samyang sits at ~R39 as a ramen/cup play.

4

Pasta Pots are a different occasion

Knorr Pasta Pots appear only in June: R1.24m, 0.56% of Noodles, ~R49 a pot / ~R790/kg — about 8× the mass sachet. Carbonara is 49% of the line. The three SKUs compete with each other first. Hold R49; do not promo into the R6 band.
